The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to voice my concerns about the FCC's proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

It is difficult enough trying to carry on personal business when on the ground with while folks are carrying on telephone conversations with other persons.

Easing restrictions on cell phone usage would not only infringe on my limited in flight space but it would also be really aggravating. We all know how rude it is to have folks carry on conversations during meetings or other public areas, to open up the airplane cabin is not a smart plan.

There is no hard evidence that cell phone use doesn't interfere with navigational instruments.

The introduction of cell phone use in the cabin will not only increase tension among passengers, it will compromise flight attendants' ability to maintain order in an emergency. Cell phone use could also enable terrorists to coordinate a plan of action more effectively.

Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Sandoval
